(class will start promptly at 1:00)

State of CT Law requires all state or municipal building construction or repair contracts of $100,000 or more that receive any state funding to require the contractor to prove that all its employees performing manual labor have completed safety training. It applies to contracts entered into on or after July 1, 2007 by the state. Manual laborers must complete an OSHA 10-hour construction safety and health course. Contractors must submit proof of course or training completion to the labor commissioner within 30 days after the contract is awarded.

This program will provide comprehensive, basic safety and health training that meets the requirements set forth by the OSHA Training Institute for accreditation as an OSHA 10-Hour Construction Outreach Training Program. Each successful participant will be issued the OSHA 10-Hour Construction Outreach wallet card, valid for 5 years in the state of CT.

Attendees will gain a better understanding of the construction activities that are responsible for the majority of fatalities and injuries. Also, serious hazards that are common to all construction activities will be covered. The ability to recognize, control, and eliminate common construction hazards as a means to prevent deaths, injuries and illnesses will be emphasized.
